They get their own one-year subscription to Fisheries, a vital source for news and viewpoints in our field. They also get FULL ACCESS to all AFS journals online: Transactions of the American Fisheries Society, The North American Journal of Fisheries Management, Journal of Aquatic Animal Health and North American Journal of Aquaculture. Students also get full access to Fisheries InfoBase, the online catalog of all articles published in AFS journals from 1872 through 2001. With the membership comes a discount in AFS publications and meeting registration.

Students, this is your career enhancer par excellence! So, instead of spending that money at a restaurant one evening, stay in and surf the web for the latest exciting and intriguing papers using your new membership benefits, or, if you have friends, just get them to pay for your dinner. Tell them it's for a good cause and join up with the professionals in AFS.
