

“Us and Them: Travelers and Travel Writing”
English 120/48607 College Composition II (3 credits)
Spring Term 2005 North Dakota State University

M. G. Aune
320D Minard Hall
231.7176

Email: m.aune@ndsu.edu

website: www.ndsu.edu/ndsu/maune

TTH 9.30-10.45

FLC 319A & IACC 114

Office Hours: 2-3.00 pm TTH

Blackboard: blackboard2.ndsu.nodak.edu

Objectives

In his essay “Why We Travel,” Pico Iyer tells us that “We travel ... to lose ourselves; and ... to find ourselves.” Visiting new and different places and meeting new and different people causes us to think about what exactly makes those people different from us. One way of looking at these questions of difference is using the term “Other.” In simplest terms, the Other is everything I am not. Put another way, I know who I am because I am aware of the Other. Travel writing is an especially rich opportunity for investigating how we regard (construct?) the Other when we are away from home. We will pursue a number of connected questions in this course. In what ways does the Other help us understand who we are? In what ways does the Other prevent us from knowing who we are? Because we are away from home when we travel, cut off from the comfort of the familiar, might we become the Other and lose our identity? How are visual texts different (or the same) in terms of the Other?

We will work toward answering these questions by reading, viewing, discussing, and writing about a variety of texts. We will read some short fiction and non-fiction, a memoir, a graphic novel, view a film and a television program, and examine some on-line material. In the end, through investigating the Other, we will have a richer understanding our ourselves, our world and our place in it. Academically, we will refine our critical thinking, reading, and writing skills as well as research strategies, and facility with on-line materials. The variety of course texts helps us to understand the interdisciplinary nature of travel writing. The authors, living and dead, American and not, represent a range of cultures and experiences and can be a guide to our own understanding of the Other.

Requirements

We will work toward the above outcomes through a number of interrelated tasks, including small and large group discussion, informal in-class writing, and formal papers written outside of class. Details of these assignments are described below.

Grading (on Blackboard gradebook)

4 Summaries (25 points each)	100 points
Story Presentation	100 points
Subjective Essay	100 points
Final Essay	100 points
Discussion Leader	50 points
Web Project	50 points
Total	500 points

Scale

A	100-90 %
B	89-80 %
C	79-70 %
D	69-60 %

Texts

The Call to Write, John Trimbur

Carnet de Voyage (Travel Journal) Craig Thompson

Travels with Charley in Search of America, John Steinbeck

Short stories available on course website

A dictionary (bring to every class)

A floppy disk dedicated to this class

Students with Special Needs

Any students with disabilities or other special needs who need special accommodations in this course are asked to share these concerns with me as soon as possible.

Academic Honesty

I assume that all work you turn in for this course is yours, and any material that you have acquired from an outside source is documented properly. Failure to do so is considered plagiarism and may result in failure of the course.

Late Papers

Late papers will lose ten points per day until they are turned in. You are responsible for turning in all work assigned in this class. Failure to do so will result in failing this class.

Attendance and Participation

University policy recognizes the importance of class attendance

(<http://www.ndsu.nodak.edu/policy/333.htm>) and important parts of the work for this course will be done in small and large groups. This means that your consistent presence is important to the success of the class as a whole. If you are unable to attend class, you must contact me via phone or email within twenty-four hours. You are still responsible for any work done or due in class that day. Similarly, you are responsible for contacting your group members if you miss a class.

Participation includes not only contributing to class discussion, it also covers prompt attendance, listening and responding constructively to your classmates, attending class prepared to discuss the readings, and bringing your books and writing material to every class meeting. If you miss more than three class meetings, this includes leaving early or attending but unprepared, you may lose one letter grade from your final grade.

Paper Format

Unless otherwise noted, all assignments are to be type-written, double-spaced, with one-inch margins, in twelve-point Times font. Your name, the date, the class, my name and the assignment are to be at the top of the first page. Do not forget to title your work. Any papers longer than one page must have page numbers and be stapled.

Calendar (subject to change)

*The titles marked with an asterisk are available on the course website.

 We will meet in a computer cluster (IACC 114) on these days.

- 11 January Introductions and interviews
Group Story Project assignment
- 13 January "Why We Travel" by Pico Iyer*
Discussion of travel motives and identity
(Statement of Group Ethics for Story presentation due)
- 18 January Sylvia Townsend Warner, "Siegfried on the Rhine"* Group 1 Presentation
Summary 1 due
- 20 January Discuss Subjective Paper and "Why We Travel"
- 25 January William Plomer, "Local Colour"* Group 2 Presentation
Summary 2 due
- 27 January Call to Write Chapter 14
Outline of Subjective Paper due
- 1 February Diane Johnson, "Cuckoo Clock"* Group 3 Presentation
Summary 3 due
- 3 February Subjective Paper due
- 7 February (Monday) Conferences in my office
- 11 February (Friday) Conferences in my office
- 16 February (Wednesday) Conferences in my office
- 17 February Timothy Findley, "An Unforgettable Journey"* Group 4 Presentation
Summary 4 due
- 22 February Anita Desai, "Scholar and Gypsy"* Group 5 Presentation
Summary 5 due
- 24 February Websites
Call to Write Chapter 8
- 1 March Search engines, evaluating websites
- 3 March website evaluation
- 8 March Website evaluation
- 10 March Web project due
(Statement of Group Ethics for Discussion Leaders due)
- 14-16 March Spring Break
- 22 March Carnet de Voyage
- 24 March Carnet de Voyage
- 29 March Travels with Charley, Part 1
discussion leader: Group 1

31 March	Travels with Charley, Part 1 **
5 April	Travels with Charley, Part 2 discussion leader: Group 2
7 April	Travels with Charley, Part 2 **
12 April	Travels with Charley, Part 3 discussion leader: Group 3
14 April	Travels with Charley, Part 3 **
19 April	Travels with Charley, Part 4 discussion leader: Group 4
21 April	Travels with Charley, Part 4 **
26 April	Full Circle with Michael Palin (film)
28 April	Full Circle with Michael Palin (film)
3 May	First draft of final essay due
5 May	Final Essay due

Course Work Summaries

You will write four summaries in this course, one on each of the short stories we will read, except the one on which you are presenting. These are to follow the paper format guidelines above and be exactly 250 words long and on one page. (Use your word processor to count the words and note the number of words at the top of the page). The summary should give the reader a brief, objective description of the story or excerpt you have read. Basic information such as title, author, setting, main characters, point of view should be included in the summary, as well as any other literary characteristics you deem important.

The first sentence of your summary should give the reader all the basic information he or she will need to understand your summary. For example: "Set in modern India, 'Scholar and Gypsy' by Anita Desai traces the difficulties an American married couple encounter while the husband researches his thesis." The rest of the summary will fill in the details, the characters' names, the nature of the conflict and its resolution, details about the setting (if necessary).

Points will be deducted if your summary fails to meet all of the above criteria.

Subjective Essay

On the first day of class you will be interviewed by a partner about a memorable trip you took. Your partner will take notes on this interview, and give the notes to you at the end of class. We will then do some free writing on this journey. Using this interview and the free writing, write a two to three page (500 – 750 word) narrative of that journey. Keep in mind the motives that Iyer suggests we have for travel. Did your trip conform to Iyer's reasons for travel? Which reasons?

Web Project

While in the computer classroom, we will examine and analyze a number of visual representations of the Other. In this project, you will identify and analyze another example. Go to the National Geographic Society's on-line Photography Index and click on History and Culture:

(<http://www.nationalgeographic.com/siteindex/photogallery/history.html>). In the section labeled "People of Today," locate at least five images that you feel represent the Other, either for yourself or someone else. For your essay, choose one of the images and in a 2-3 page (500 – 750 word) paper discuss how the image represents the Other, and what the maker of the image seems to value. Be sure to print a copy of the image you are writing about. Think about the terms we will have discussed: foreground, background, framing, lighting, black and white vs. color. Is this visual representation similar to the representations in the stories we have read so far? How? Do images of the Other affect the viewer differently than verbal descriptions? How?

Final Essay

In this course we have read and seen a variety of travel narratives, and we have discussed how meeting the Other is a means by which we form our own identity. For your final essay, I want you to return to Subjective Essay 1. After having discussed and investigated travel narratives, how have your ideas about your journey changed?

In a five to six page essay (1,250 – 1,500 word) essay, revisit your travel narrative and reflect on your experience through free writing. Then conduct some research about your destination? Can you find some images of the place? How does it present itself to the world? How do others react to that place? Then turn to your own response to that place. To what extent did your trip involve an encounter with the Other? How did the journey affect your sense of self? I encourage you to draw on the course materials as way to compare or contrast.

Group rules

You have two major projects that will be conducted in groups. In order for evaluation and grading to be consistent and reflect work done by individuals, a number of procedures must be followed. Ethical group participation means that each member is responsible for the group's performance. Each member must contribute as well as encourage others to contribute.

During the first group meeting, the group must generate an agreement that describes the group's goal. The goal will be to earn a high score on the project, but in a way that values the opinions of all members. Group members must be committed to the group's goals, complete their individual tasks, avoid interpersonal conflict, encourage group participation, and keep the discussion focused. The group must compose a "Code of Ethics" that describes the goals and responsibilities of the group. This is to be no more than one page, it must list the group number, each member's name and contact information (whatever means is most reliable), the group's goal, and the responsibilities of members. Each group member and the instructor must receive a typed copy of this.

Each group must meet at least three times outside of class for each project. Time will also be provided in class for group work.

On the day the group project is due, each group member must fill out and turn in a Group Member Evaluation Form for each member. Each member must also fill out and turn in a Peer Rating of Group Members. These forms are available for download from the course website.

The group will earn a single score for the project. This score will be modified by the peer response forms in order to determine each student's score.

Group Projects

Story Presentation

Each group will be responsible for a class period. Your group will be assigned a short story on which to present. Your goal is to help your classmates achieve an interpretation of the story and a sense of how that interpretation relates to the other course material, in particular how the Other is represented and what it tells us about the writer/narrator. Specific requirements include:

1. a vocabulary lesson based on the story

- choose the words you believe need special attention, either because they are unfamiliar, especially important to the story, or used in specific or unusual ways.
- devise a means of communicating and explaining these words beyond simply defining them or asking students to look them up

2. an author biography

- include a bibliography of the writer's major works and critical works on the writer, in MLA style that you will distribute to the class

3. a discussion of the geographical, historical, and cultural background to the story

- present the material to the class without simply lecturing. You may use any technique that you feel will be effective. If you need any technical support, VCR/TV; computer/projector, stereo, let me know at least a week ahead of time
- prepare a handout with a bibliography (MLA style) of the sources you used

4. a discussion of the story itself

- cover the basics: setting, character, plot
- cover any literary figures that appear in the story, e.g. metaphor, irony, symbol, figurative language
- bring out the important ideas/themes of the story
- find ways for the story to connect to other stories or ideas that have been expressed in class

5. some form of evaluation of the students

- somehow evaluate what your classmates have learned from your presentation. This may be a quiz, an exercise, a worksheet. As a group, you will be responsible for reading and responding to these evaluations. That is, you must evaluate it.

You must also turn in a Group Member Evaluation Form for each member and a Peer Rating of Group Members.

After each presentation we will have a brief class feedback session about the presentation.

Discussion Leaders

For each section of Travels with Charley, each group will be responsible for conducting a discussion of the work. This is not to be as elaborate as the group presentation, but you must meet at least twice ahead of time to prepare. The goal is to carry on a discussion of the work in terms of the questions about travel writing and the Other that we have been investigating this term. You must also turn in a Group Member Evaluation Form for each member and a Peer Rating of Group Members.

We will also have a feedback session after these presentations.

First Day Reading

The Mexican Pet

A friend told me a story that couldn't possibly be true. She knows of a woman who recently vacationed of the Gulf Coast of Florida with her family. While vacationing they befriended a stray dog. It stayed with them while they vacationed and they treated the dog like any other pet: the dog slept with them, shared food, etc. The kids had grown attached to the dog and when it was time to return home they wanted to take the dog with them. The mother insisted they could not take the dog because they already had a dog and cat at home. The kids won out and they took the dog home with them.

They returned to their normal routines, the kids went to school and the parents went off to work. Upon returning home from work the mother found her family pets horribly mutilated and dead. The stray however was fine. She took the stray to the vet who couldn't find anything wrong with the dog but wanted to keep the dog and run some tests. The vet calls back a hour or so later to say that the dog was not a dog, but a Korean Rat. My friend who told me this story said that the vet couldn't tell it was a rat by looking at the "dog" and only knew because of the bloodwork. They say the "dog" looked like a long-haired wiener dog.

Source:

"The Mexican Pet," Urban Legends Reference Pages
<<http://www.snopes.com/critters/lurkers/mexpet.htm>>.