Elements of Helping
Diffusion of Responsibility

Decrease in the individual sense of responsibility for taking action in an emergency because of the presence of other bystanders. The greater the number of bystanders, the less likely each person is to act.

Bystander Effect

As the number of bystanders increases, the likelihood of helping decreases and more time passes before help occurs.

Five Choice Points in Helping
Choice Point #1

The bystander must perceive that there is an emergency.
- The unaware person does not act.

Choice Point #2

The bystander must interpret the situation as being an emergency.

PLURALISTIC IGNORANCE

Bystanders’ misinterpretation of an event caused by reliance on what others do or say even though no one is sure what is happening. All hold back.

Choice Point #3

ASSUME RESPONSIBILITY TO ACT.
- Have to know what to do.
- Liability?
Choice Point #4

Deciding how to help.
- Get others?
- Act on own?
- What are the costs?

Choice Point #5

Actually helping.
- Does not guarantee that you will be effective.
